THE AMERICAN CLASS READER: containing a series of lessons in Reading; with Introductory Exercises in Articulation, inflection. Emphasis, and the other essential elements of correct natural Elecution: designed for Academies and common Schools. By Groses Witson, formerly Principal of the Canandaigna Academy, and late Principal of the Livingston Co. High School.

The design of the American Class-reader, is to teach scholars to read. It is not sufficient for this purpose, that a book be instructive and entertaining, and the selections chasts and classical in point of diction; it should be also properly adapted to exercise the reader in all the varied tones, inflections, and other requisities that belong to correct elecution.

Four lessons are inserted without punctuation.

Four lessons are inserted without punctuation.
These will furnish tests of the degree of intelligence, and of attention to the same, with which the pupil reads. They may also be used in teaching punctuation, and the use of capitals.

A considerable number of lessons have been selected from the Bible. Apart from the importance and value of its divine instructions, the Sacred Scriptures abound in passages unrivalled in natural impressive eloquence, and admirably adapted to the purpose of improvement in elocution. In what is called the torical dialogue, selections can no where else be found at all comparable.

Class Reader.

["This system of Arithmetic is designed for the more advanced pupils in common Schools and Academies. It does not attempt to combine men tal arithmetic with the use of the slate, nor to unite in one book a treatise for children of six, and for youths of sixteen years old. In mental arithmetic, every thing that could be desired, has been done by Colburn whose admirable little work is now so generally used and highly appreciated throughout the United States."]

SYSTEM OF ARITHMETIC, containing everal new methods of operation, and a new system of Proportion; with Theoretical explanations of all the principal rules. Also, a treatise on Mensuration, and a brief practical system of Book keeping. By the author of the American Clars Reader.

CANANDAIGUA, JULY 1, 1836.

Mr. Morse:

Sir—Having carefully examined "The American Class. Reader," by George Wilson, I hesitate not to express my opinion decidedly in its favor; because I doem it a work chaste in its selections, classical in point of diction, and admirably calculated to assist youth in becoming correct readers. I hope that it will be universally adopted in our schools.

I have also examined your "Practical and Theoretical Arithmetic," by the same author, containing several new methods of operation, and a new system of proportion; and hesitate not to say, that it is the best work I have seen of the kind.
